An examination of the registry lists shows that a good many men who have been prominent at one time or another as Mugwumps or Anti-Snappers have not taken interest enough in this campaign to register this year.

It probably will surprise politicians to learn that Secretary of War Daniel S. Lamont is not registered and consequently connot vote next Tuesday. It will be a surprise to the politicians to know this because it was given out and printed in large black type that Secretary Lamont came here one day especially for the purpose of enrolling his name as a voter, and that after having performed this duty he went back to

After passing the resolution Scrate appointed Messrs. Ransom and Cullom a committee to act with the House Committee to notify the President that Corgress was ready to adjourn. Then the upper chamber went into executive session to clear up nominations pending.

It was decided by the House and Senate conferees not to permit the Urgency Deficiency bill to stand in the way of an adjournment, but will stand in the way of the future settlement of deficiency bills. It has been agreed that the bill shall go over until the regular session.

At the meeting of the conferees yesterday the Senate conferees told the managers on the part of the House that they would insist for all time concurrence in the provision providing for the payment of Senator's by them. bill is liable to be construed that the majority members of the Committee would not be ready to report at that time, or to allow the Republican minority to see the bill and prepare a report. Subsequent reports, and especially the desire of Mr. Wilson that the Committee be authorized to sit and file their eport on the Tariff bill with the Clerk f the House during the interim of Congress, indicates that the bill is much searer completion than would be anticipated by the declaration that the bill would not be ready to report before the 1st of December.

Members of the majority say that many of the newspaper reports that have been sent out about the bill have been erroneous. It is true there have been many reductions and that members of the Committee have also discussed means of reducing the deficit in the Treasury.
